DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claim 25 recites the limitation "said voltage" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim 24 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The body of the claim does not support the preamble, since no energy is converted.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 24 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Langhans et al (Langhans).

Langhans discloses the claimed method of forming methane from an anaerobically digested organic material and separating the carbon dioxide from said fuel (see Abstract).

Consequently, the claim is anticipated.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claim 25 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Langhans as applied to claim 24 above, and further in view of Carabetta et al. (Carabetta), U.S. Patent 5,254,934.

The patent does not disclose that the methane is used in a hydrogen fuel cell to generate voltage. The Carabetta patent is cited to show that such use of methane to generate voltage is conventional in the art (see figure 1).

Therefore, the invention as a whole would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the disclosure to obtain the invention, because the Carabetta patent teaches that such use of methane is routinely used to generate voltage.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-23 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-10 of U.S. Patent No. 6,090,266. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims of the patent when read in light of the specification clearly encompass and render obvious the claimed invention.

The prior patent discloses the claimed process for the anaerobic production of hydrogen from biomass wastes by the application of current. The reference further teaches that the application of current "enhances the production of hydrogen" while suppressing the production of methane.

The invention as a whole would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the disclosure of the prior patent to optimize the use of the electricity, because the patent teaches that even without the application of electricity there is hydrogen produced and one having ordinary skill would optimize the use of electricity to optimize the amount of energy spent versus the amount of hydrogen obtained. Discovery of optimum value of result effective variable in known process is ordinarily within skill of art.
